Call For Papers

In many ways, to study Napoleonic history is to study the complicated relationship between the Empires of France and Austria. Both allies and adversaries, and at one time bound together by marriage (represented in this Congress by the 1810 snuffbox celebrating that marriage), the two countries and their emperors, Napoleon I and Francis II, danced a delicate dance throughout the Napoleonic Era. We anticipate and encourage papers on the many aspects of this delicate dance, but we will also consider papers on other Napoleonic topics. Topics can include military, political, social and cultural aspects of the period. Vienna is an obvious, and delightful, location for such a study. We will have four days of papers and three days of tours, including Saturday the 14th and Sunday the 15th.

Papers should be no more than 15 pages double-spaced, (about 5000 words), and presentations are limited to 20-30 minutes. To be considered for publication in our academic journal, Napoleonic Scholarship, papers must follow the Chicago Manual of Style.

Please complete the registration form and also include a one-page summary of your paper and a résumé. We encourage you to submit all information via email, with your paper attached as a WORD document. Please give us a printed version of your paper at the Congress. If requested, you will be given an opportunity to make revisions to your paper prior to submission for publication. Selected papers will be published in our journal and/or on our website.

The official languages of the conference will be English, French and German, but we strongly encourage papers to be in English as there will not be translators available and our journal only publishes articles in English. Hotel registration and further information can be found in the other documents.

I must have all paper proposals no later than 1 April 2018, but I strongly encourage you to submit your proposals before then.

We urge you to check for further information and forms on our official website, www.napoleonicsociety.com. If you have not already done so, please send us your email address, as that is our preferred method of communication.
